June 2019

And Jesus said, "Young man, I say to you, rise!" The dead man sat up and began to speak, and Jesus gave him to his mother. (Luke 7:14b-15)

Rise and Be Bold! Jesus Is Calling Your Name.

I prepared this article specifically for our church graduates (Linda Harmon, Mikala Hammer, Rachel Tooze, Olivia Brock [High school] & Zach Manley [College]), but especially the high school graduates. I want to share it with not only with them but also all of congregation. Please, bless their new journey and keep supporting them spiritually and physically.

I think I am still young. I am just 35 years old and got married 4 years ago. Also, I did not have much experience with public life, but I have felt and agreed it was a great time when I was a student at middle school, high school, college, and graduate school.

Of course, I totally agree that it is a difficult thing to go to a school every day. Also, sometimes you can think you don't have much freedom because of your parents and regular school life, however, it is also true that it is a great thing to live with your parents and family.

Living with family means that you can share not only your joys but also your concerns, sadness, and difficulties with close relational people.

However, it is time that as a high school graduate you may leave your parents and family. It means you need to get up yourself and go to college and also take on a lot of responsibilities yourself.

Finally, almost all of you will take more than tens of thousands dollars in student loans automatically. One of my colleagues is 62 years old but he still has to pay off his student loans over the course of 30 years. This loan will be your soul mate unconditionally well into your future.

The actor Robert De Niro's speech at New York University's Tisch School of the Arts four years ago was "Yay! Congratulations! You made it, but you are xxxx". Yes. Robert De Niro used F-word for emphasizing lots of hardships, difficulties, and some problems to face in the real world to graduates. (It is a fun and meaningful speech, so I recommend you watch a full version of his speech on YouTube, <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=7Y1hyAf8xy0>)

However, remember this Gospel message. Jesus clearly said to you, "Young man, I say to you, get up!" It is 100% true that you will have a happy church and worldly life after graduation. You will also definitely face difficulties, despair, and problems, and it will sometimes have made you hopeless and frustrated in your future life, not only in the secular world but also at church. But don't worry about it. As your pastor, I will give you only one perfect method to solve your upcoming problems.

Do not depend on wrong methods to solve your problems. Lean on Christ Jesus. Read the Bible and remember Jesus' teaching and pray for solutions to your problems.

You may think that I am just saying this because I am the pastor. Yes. I know these are traditional and classic Christian methods, but they clearly work and may help you.

Remember, the Holy Spirit is to be with you wherever you are, whatever you do, even when you are having a hard time. Your parents are praying for you with love. Your pastors are also praying for you every day. Your church family is praying for you and your new journey. You are not alone, because even when you leave our city we are still with you spiritually. Our Lord, Jesus Christ and Holy Spirit is always with you.

The church was here. The church is currently here. The church will be here as your home church with the Holy Spirit.

Bless your new journey and love you in Christ Jesus.

HARD CHOICES IN TROUBLED TIMES

Peace I leave with you; my peace I give to you. I do not give to you as the world gives. Do not let your hearts be troubled, and do not let them be afraid. John 14:27

Immediately it struck into my mind, "Leave off preaching. How can you preach to others, who have not faith yourself?" I asked Bohler whether he thought I should leave it off or not. He answered, "By no means." I asked, "But what can I preach?" He said, "Preach faith till you have it; and then, because you have it, you will preach faith." John Wesley

I call heaven and earth to witness against you today that I have set before you life and death, blessings and curses. Choose life so that you and your descendants may live,... Deuteronomy 30:19

There are many people in our United Methodist Church today who are not experiencing the peace of Christ in their hearts, minds, and spirits. Rarely in our history has there been such division, such hurt, such disagreement, such anxiety, and such widespread discontent. This is one of the reasons that we changed our Annual Conference theme to "Wilderness." Wilderness is not our destination, but it is an accurate appraisal of our current reality.

The hard question that challenges us at this moment in time is this: do we still believe there is a Promised Land on the other side of the wilderness? Are we still moving toward a "future with hope?" Is there ANY possibility we can make this journey together?

I understand that many people are feeling desperation and hopelessness. There are many who feel our only future is to divide, go our separate ways, and continue our journey with only the like-minded and acquiescent. To some people, the integrity of the body of Christ has been so badly compromised that they no longer choose to fight for unity.

My deepest hope and prayer through this messy and hurtful time is that God's Holy Spirit might inspire and work through our better natures, that we might make the healthiest, most sustainable, and least damaging choices possible. Once we burn our bridges, we limit our options, perhaps to our detriment. So, a very important first step is to acknowledge that what we are doing is making choices.

One lay person in our conference wrote, "you leave me no choice but to leave The United Methodist Church." It doesn't matter whether this person is conservative or progressive, liberal or traditional – what matters is that she has given away her power by saying she has no choice. I want to say that no matter how upset we are, no matter how angry we may be, no matter that others make decisions we disagree with, we still have choice. We may not choose to feel frightened or angry or anxious or confused, but we still have power to decide how we will respond.

Every time I write or speak about what is happening in our denomination and our conference, some people like what I say, some vehemently dislike what I say, some have no idea what I am saying. If I say, "I will work to lead a church that welcomes ALL people," I get a wide variety of responses. Some people praise me, some say I do not go nearly far enough, some say I go too far, but it is not as interesting to me what people say as how they say it. Some will tell me they disagree with me, some that they do not understand how I can say what I do, some say they are disappointed by what I said, but others insult and say terribly personal things. These people choose how they will disagree with me.

I am calling upon the beautiful people of the Wisconsin Conference to carefully, mindfully, kindly, compassionately, and with mercy and justice in mind, choose how you will live through this time of division and hurt and anxiety. Choose life over death; choose blessing over curse; choose hope over despair; choose grace over judgement and condemnation. Choose to preach faith and love and hope, even when you don't feel it. Choose to be patient and gentle and generous so that you might be numbered among the peace-makers that Jesus blesses. And above all, don't give up. Choose to fight for a church that equips all people to be gifted and used by God for the transformation of the world. Choose to look at all we can be, not where we fail and where we disagree. The good that God calls us to be is greater than any bad of human design. Choose God and let us make our way through the present wilderness to a future brimming with hope and promise.

Grace and Peace,

Bishop Hee-Soo Jung

The poster features a blue background with a white border. At the top, there are two photos: one of a man in a red cap and another of a child with a cow mascot. In the center is the Burnett Dairy Cooperative logo, which includes a cow silhouette and the text "BURNETT DAIRY COOPERATIVE". Below the logo, the words "DAIRY DAY" are written in large, bold, white letters with a blue outline. At the bottom, a white banner contains the text "FREE OFFERINGS - LIVE MUSIC - KID ACTIVITIES - GIVEAWAYS - LOCAL VENDORS".

Join us for our annual Dairy Day on Friday, June 14th as we celebrate all things Dairy! Fun for the entire family!

Samples galore! Free ice cream cones, cheese samples, all-you-can-drink milk stand, giveaways, discounts, bounce house, petting farm, state-sanctioned tractor pedal pull for kids (adult classes too), corn pit, live music, local vendors, face painting, tractor display & more! This event is free to attend and is one of our favorite days of the year!

JUNE MISSION Youth Group Support

GIVING

Are You Giving In All the Ways You Should?

June 2019

Are you giving to the church in all the ways you could or should be giving? You may be supporting this year's budget, but what about the future of the church, missional support, and special projects? Are you providing for these as well?

I think of the church's assets and giving as an ice-cream cone. The church's assets such as the building, parsonage, and endowments as the cone. Essential, but not very appetizing all by themselves.

Annual budget giving is the first scoop. It is needed and provides basic support and flavor to the church. However, too often, this is where we stop thinking about supporting the church. What about other scoops?

What about missions? Mission-related giving can include apportionments (sometimes paid with the annual budget, sometimes not), conference projects, Special Sundays, UMCOR, national and international advance projects and support of individual missionaries. Are you thinking about your offering for missions this year? These are usually donations over and above what is collected for the annual budget.

What about planned giving? Planned giving provides for the future of the church when you are no longer around. Have you included the church in your will or as a beneficiary to your investment accounts or life insurance? Ten percent is a good number, leaving plenty for your family.

Finally, what about special projects. Capital fundraising can support new ministry, ministry growth, new building or renovation and maintenance of existing structures. Remember the Imagine No Malaria campaign a couple of years back that raised over one million dollars?
